The Income-Tax. As we have never believed that at its

Even the sixth member Representative Cornish, is opposed to the income-tax, and will vote against placing it on the tariff bill."

How is it that New York and New Jersey Democrats can thus meet in secret caucus and antagonize Democratic mea sures without losing their standing in the party, whilst Democrats from Virginia, West Virginia, and Alabama are allowed no such privilege? Is the Wilson bill a party measure? It seems to be a bill hose provisions any Democrat may re fuse to vote for in the Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union, but must vote for in the House of Representafives, or whose provisions may all be voted against separately but not when they are voted on as a whole,

OUR MINERAL LANDS.

REPORT OF THE JOINT COMMITTEE ON THEIR ASSESSMENT.

At the last session of the General At embly a special joint comm appointed "to investigate and report to the next (this) General Assembly the real and the assessed value of the mineral lands in the State, in order that the same may be reassessed and taxed according to the real value."

The committee consisted of Messrs . F. Withrow, of Bath; R. I. Anderson A. F. Withrow, of Bath; R. I. Anderson, of Pittsylvania; W. A. Fentress, of Portsmouth; John E. Mason, of King George, and M. P. Jackson, of Wise, on the part of the House, and Henry Fairfax, of Loudoun; G. A. Mushbach, of Alexandris, and Conway R. Sards, of Richmond, on the part of the Senate. All the members of the committee except Mr. Jackson are members of the present General Assembly. Yesterday the committee submitted their report in the Senate through Mr. Fairfax, and in the House through Mr. Withrow. The report is yoluminous and exhaustive. and in the House through Mr. Withrow. The report is voluminous and exhaustive, and bears evidence that the committee addressed themselves to their labors with energy and system.

The principal mineral sections of the State were visited, the properties and deeds thereto examined, and testimony as to values taken from assessors, clerks, &c. Inquiry was also made which developed whether owners of recognitive were oped whether owners of properties wer residents or non-residents, and statistics gathered as to the value of the product of mines and of the manufactured material turned out from such product.

COMPARATIVE VALUES. Evidence was also taken as to the rela tive assessed value of mineral lands and farming lands in the same vicinity, with the result of showing that the farming were assessed much higher than the mineral properties.

A SPECIMEN OBSERVATION.

The character of the committee's observations may be gathered from the following extract from the report:

"The Alleghany Mining Company is operated by a joint stock company. On examination of the books at Alleghany Courthouse we found that no income-tax had ever been paid by the owner of the property or the lessees. The books of the Commissioner of the Revenue showed that for the previous year $5,200 had been stated as the product of these vast mines. The amount of tax derived on this was $23.54. To show what has been lost to the State in the way of taxes, it is only necessary to call your attention to the fact that by the statement of the manager of the Iron Mountain mines, which are the mines operated by this company, the output of these mines for years back has averaged 150 tons a day for working days, say 250 days a year. This would make the annual output about 37,500 tons, worth, at the least, $1.50 per ton, making a total of $5,375 on which the State should have received taxes." A SPECIMEN OBSERVATION.

A GENERAL CONDITION. A GENERAL CONDITION.

Pretty much the same condition of affairs exists regading the Rich Patch section, the Chambers, and the Douthat surveys, and the mineral lands of Craig and Botetourt counties. In some instances farm lands are assessed at $5 per acre and mineral lands from 75 cents to $4 per acre.

THE SOUTHWEST.

"On investigation," say the committee,
"it appeared that the coal and timber lands throughout Tazewell, Wise, Buchanan, and Dickenson counties are assessed at prices entirely incommensurate with their real value, notwithstanding developments are going on in different parts of some of these counties, and hundreds of thousands of tons of minerals are being shipped annually. These shipments are being made over the Norfolk and Western raffroad to the eastern market, and yet it is a startling fact, as will be shown by a statement from the Auditor's office, that not one dollar in taxes has been paid on minerals raised.
We therefore recommend that action be taken in this matter, and that an investigation be made, and that the owners of these vast rich coal properties be required to show cause why they should not be taxed on minerals that have already been taken from these coal-fields within the past two years.
"We further ascertained that nearly all

The committee think the amount thus nessessed should be at least $90,000, and set forth their general conclusions as follows:

1. Taxation upon real estate in Virginia is not equal and uniform.

2. Lands used for agricultural purposes are assessed far above lands containing minerals, and the burden of taxation is thus unfairly placed upon the farmers.

3. Lands containing minerals—both developed and undeveloped—are assessed far below their value.

4. By reason of the unequal assessments throughout the State the Commonwealth has lost an untold amount of revenue.

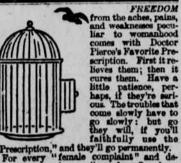

5. Falure to express the true consideration in deeds conveying property has also degrived the Commonwealth of her just dues.

6. We believe if taxation upon real estate be fair and equal the State will be able to meet promptly all her demands and perfect her free-school system and reduce the rate of taxation.

The committee promise to introduce bills carrying out the policy they outline. Mr. B. P. Owen accompanied the committee on their tour, acting as clerk and stenographer, and took hundreds of pages of testimony, from which the report was formulated.

I was General Grant's chief cor and was present in the room during the interview between him and General Lee. After the terms of the surrender had been agreed upon, General Lee said to General Grant:

General Grant:

General Grant turned to me, as his chief commissary, and said:

"Colonel, feed the Confederate army."

I asked: "How many men are there:"

General Grant asked: "How many men have you, General Lee?"

General Lee replied, "Our books are lost; our organizations are broken up; the companies are mostly commanded by non-commissioned officers; we have nothing but what we have on our backs—"

Interrupting him in this train - of thought, I suggested, interrogatively:
"Say 25,000 men?"
He replied: "Yes; say 25,000 men."

I started to withdraw for the purpose of giving the necessary orders, and at the door met Colonel Kellogg, the chief commissary of General Sheridan's command. I asked him if he could feed the Army of Northern Virginia. He expressed his inability, having something very important to do for General Sheridan.

I then found Colonel M. P. Small, the I then found Colonel M. P. Small, the chief commissary of General Ord's army, and asked him, as I had asked General Sheridan's chief commissary, if he could feed the Army of Northern Virginia. He replied, with a considerable degree of confidence, "I guess so." I then told him to do it, and directed him to give the men three days' rations of fresh beef, salt, hard bread, coffee, and sugar. He mounted his horse immediately, and proceeded to carry out his order.

Both Colonels Kellogg and Small are now dead.

A Prominent Professor Speaks About the

Threatening Things Abroad at This

Time of the Year.

Time of the Test.

"It is surprising how many people are suffering to-day from so-called coughs, coids, and influents."

The remark was made by a very prominent professor, connected with one of the leading New York hospitals. Continuing, the said:

"It is not these things that are troubling people, but it is an advanced form of our old enemy, the grip, People feel out of sorts, sineze, have palms in the muscles and bones, have no appetite, lose all interest in the world, and womder what is the matter. It is the grip; nothing else.

"Now, all such symptoms need to have prompt treatment. The attack must be met and repelled at once, or it is certain to run into something serious. I know of but one way to certainly avoid these troubles, which are now so common, and that is, to immediately counteract them by using a good, pure, strong stimulant. Nothing of the ordinary kind, but something pure and scientific. For this purpose nothing has ever equalled Dufty's Pure Malt Whiskey, which is acknowledged to-day by physicians and scientific people to be the only pure, medicinal mait whiskey upon the market."

The words of the professor are true, and they carry a wonderful meaning to many men and women who are suffering with the first symptoms of grip, or else grip in its advanced stages. For all such people we effer a word of advice; which is to take the best means to overcome these troubles, and do not permit any dealer to swerve you from your purpose to have that which has proven itself by years of use to be the best and purest stimulant in the world. miss them.
